

Dear Hiring Manager

I am writing to express my strong interest in this position. I recently graduated from the University of Stellenbosch with a MSc in Machine Learning and Artificial Intelligence.

Before finishing my master's degree, I completed both a BCom and BSc Honours degree specialising in data science. All three of my qualifications have equipped me with a deep knowledge in all things mathematical, computer science, data science and artificial intelligence related. You could say I very much live and breath code: in my spare time I take on other coding and data related projects, such as scraping data from Etoro via an auto-clicker, or designing and implementing unique video games.

I don't just have the code and data passion needed for this role; I have grit and ambition you'll find in very few other candidates. After some experience in an internship at an AI startup in Stellenbosch, I can confirm this is a role I'd be interested in and enjoy!

Thank you for your consideration!

Regards,

Hendrik
